TOURISM DEVELOPMENT OF UMNUGOBI

- Omnogobi was one of the first aimags in Mongolia to develop tourism since 1963 and remains one of the most popular destinations in Mongolia.
- Between 20,000 and 40,000 tourists visit each year.
- There are 19 tourist camps with a total of 1,311 beds.
Main destinations

- The main attraction for international visitors is the desert landscape.
- Most tourists visit three destinations: Khonghoryn Els, Yolyn Am, and Bayanzag.
- Other destinations receive far fewer visitors.
Flaming Cliffs

It is a spectacular escarpment and valley made famous by the discovery of important dinosaur finds, including the first dinosaur eggs.
Yolyn Am

- This is one of a series of valleys in the Gurvan Saikhan mountains and notable because it retains ice through most of the year, ice in a desert in the summer.
- Has a number of rare bird species including Kovlov’s Accentor and Altai Snowcock and is regularly visited by specialist bird-watching tours.
Khongor Sand Dunes

This is one of the largest and most spectacular sand dunes in Mongolia, with a stream and seasonal marsh at their base which attracts large numbers of birds on migration. There are tourist camps near the dunes and several herder groups receive tourists in gers and offer camel rides so that tourism is their main source of income.
Opportunities

Mining
The development of mining provides a number of opportunities for tourism development: improved infrastructure will make it easier for tourists to reach Omnogobi; a growing population especially in Khanbogd soum will provide a new market; and international mining companies have made commitments to corporate social responsibility and already support a number of initiatives helping local communities.

Cross-border tourism
Large numbers of Chinese tourists visit tourism complexes in Inner Mongolia and it may be possible to attract them to resorts in Omnogobi.
Other destinations
Monasteries

The monastery is described as the World Energy Centre, but the designation is ambiguous for international tourists and many Mongolians.

Petroglyphs

- There are extensive petroglyphs on rocky hillsides at various locations within the aimag; the best preserved are Khatsgait in Bulgan, Urt in Momgon, Javkhlan in Khanbogd and Salhit in Sevrey. These are considered to be up to 4000 years old and...
